

TOP TIPS FOR TRAINING IN THE WORKPLACE WITH COUNTRYWISE TRAINING LTD

Make time for Training and get the time to train

Making time to train makes sense with proper training staff are more confident in the task, leading to an increase in productivity, working safer and smarter reducing the risks of accidents and lost time. Other benefits amongst others may include reduced staffing costs and increased staff retention

Ensure Training is Fit for Purpose

Regardless of the subject being taught or your chosen method of training it needs to be fit for purpose and suitable for the learners needs options include inhouse training, going to a training provider, accredited courses or bespoke unaccredited training sessions. With regards to choosing a training provider for First Aid please check out our blog with links to the HSE on choosing a training and requirements and due diligence

<https://countrywisetraining.com/first-aid/choosing-a-first-aid-trainer/>

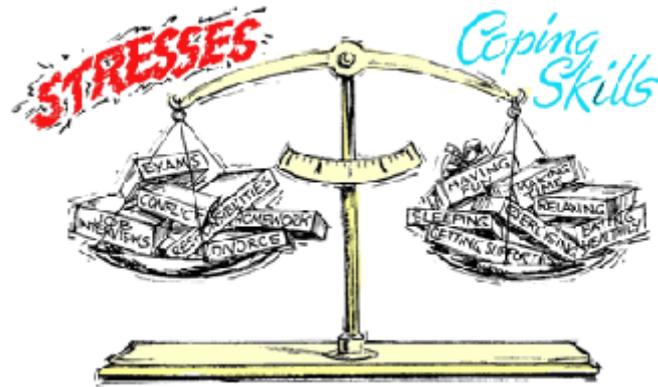

Make It Fun

People should look forward to training they learn and retain more information if they are awake during the training.

Build the leaders and develop your team

Encouraging and supporting staff allowing staff to develop and present their ideas with proper training encourages staff retention and morale remember the saying you are only as good as your day off. With proper training you can reduce stress and accidents in the workplace. Remember the Mental Health of you and your team is just as important as physical health, and by looking after yourself and your team you can reduce the number of unexpected issues that arise and the impact these have on a business including reputation, costs, possible legal repercussions and on the plus side attract and retain staff who care, new clients. Why wouldn't you train your staff properly?

Training isn't only for work but for home take First Aid and First Aid for Mental Health as an example

Skills learnt in the workplace carry over into other parts of your and your team's life have you ever burnt or cut yourself at home or driven past an accident whilst on the way to work the basic skills learnt are the same as if you had the accident at work and remember first aid training is for all what would happen if you needed an ambulance at home and weren't able to call would your children know what to do?

If you have time why not visit our website at www.countrywisetraining.com and see how a local Northamptonshire girl helped save her mums life after she collapsed and was awarded a bravery award for her fantastic effort and bravery after completing a Mini Medics Course with Countrywise Training Ltd at School

Thank you for taking the time to read this if you have any questions or would like further information regarding training in the workplace including

- first aid at Work,
- First Aid for Mental Health,
- Basic Food Hygiene
- Health and safety Training
- And our Mini Medics Course for Children

Please contact myself at Countrywise Training Ltd

Kind Regards

Jonathan Monday CertNCRQ

www.countrywisetraining.com

j.monday@countrywisetraining.com

